

RELIGION THIRD YEAR DAY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT WORKLOAD
Mr. Robert Z. Cortes

Using YM, Facebook, G-mail chat or any other communicating device, discuss with at least one classmate the following questions:

- a. Why do you think are we studying Church history?
- b. How does the study of Church history help one grow as a Christian or simply as a human being (for non-Christians)?

Take note of what they write / say since you will be given the opportunity to incorporate what they say in your individual project.

Now that you've shared thoughts about your expectations about Church history, it's now time for you to actually articulate what you've thought about and shared with your classmates individually through a short essay – 1 whole sheet, at least 100 – 200 words. Write the names of the people you discussed these questions with. Keep the following questions in mind as you write your essay:

- a. Why do you think is it important for a Christian to study Church history?
- b. How do you think the study of Church history will help you personally as a Christian or simple as a human being (for non-Christians)?

Below the essay but separate from it, enumerate specific persons, events, issues, controversies, etc. in Church history which you would like to explore at length at some point in the course. Like the previous part, you can discuss this with your classmates online before you write anything.

This will be submitted to me in class on the first day when you come back to school.

Thank you and stay healthy!

Mr. C. :)
